```
Base Types
integer, float, boolean, string
   int 783
                         -192
float 9.23
                   0.0
                            -1.7e-6
                                    10^{-6}
 bool True
                   False
   str "One\nTwo"
                             ' I_',m '
              new line
                              ' escaped
                       """X\tY\tZ
               multiline
                       1\t2\t3"""
unmodifiable.
ordered sequence of chars
                            tab char
```

Identifiers

```
Container Types

    ordered sequence, fast index access, repeatable values

   list [1,5,9]
                         ["x", 11, 8.9]
                                             ["mot"]
                                                             []
 tuple (1,5,9)
                         11, "y", 7.4
                                             ("mot",)
                                                             ()
 unmodifiable
                     expression with just comas
■ no a priori order, unique key, fast key access; keys = base types or tuples dict {"key":"value"}
                                                             {}
          {1: "one", 3: "three", 2: "two", 3.14: "π"} set {"key1", "key2"}
                                     {1,9,3,0}
                                                        set()
```

```
□ diacritics allowed but should be avoided
□ language keywords forbidden
□ min/MAJ case discrimination
  © a toto x7 y_max BigOne ⊗ 8y and
             Variables assignment
   = 1.2 + 8 + \sin(0)
       value or calculation expression variable name (identifier)
y, z, r = 9.2, -7.6, "bad" container with several
```

values (here a tuple)

__→ x-=2

increment

decrement -

x=None « undefined » constant value

a..zA..Z_ followed by a..zA..Z_0..9

for variables, functions,

variables

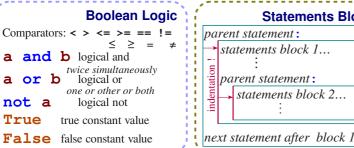

names

x+=3 *

modules, classes... names

```
type (expression) Conversions can specify integer number base in 2nd parameter
 int ("15")
 int (15.56) truncate decimal part (round (15.56) for rounded integer) float ("-11.24e8")
 str (78.3)
                 and for litteral representation - → repr("Text")
           see verso for string formating allowing finer control bool \longrightarrow use comparators (with ==, !=, <, >, ...), logial boolean result use each element
list("abc")_
                                                   →['a','b','c']
                       from sequence
dict([(3, "three"), (1, "one")]) - → {1:'one',3:'three'} use each element
 set(["one", "two"])— → {'one','two'}
                            from sequence
 ":".join(['toto','12','pswd']) → 'toto:12:pswd'
                      sequence of strings
joining string
 "words with spaces".split()—→['words','with','spaces']
 "1,4,8,2".split(",")
                 splitting string
```

```
Sequences indexing
                                                                for lists, tuples, char strings, ...
                                          -3
                                                  -2
                                                           -1
                                                                      len(lst) \longrightarrow 6
negative index | -6
                      1
                                          3 4 individual access to items via [index]
                            "abc", 1968]
     lst=[11,
                     67,
                                        3.14, 42
                                                                      lst[1] \rightarrow 67
                                                                                                 1st [0] \rightarrow 11 first one positive slice 0
                                                                      1st[-2] \rightarrow 42
                                                                                                 1st [-1] →1968 last one negative slice −6 −5
                        -4
                                     -¦3
                                                                    access to sub-sequences via [start slice:end slice:step] lst[:-1] \rightarrow [11, 67, "abc", 3.14, 42]
                                                                      lst[1:3] → [67, "abc"]
     lst[1:-1] \rightarrow [67, "abc", 3.14, 42]
                                                                      lst[-3:-1] \rightarrow [3.14,42]
                                                                      lst[:3] → [11, 67, "abc"]
     lst[::2] \rightarrow [11, "abc", 42]
     lst[:] \rightarrow [11, 67, "abc", 3.14, 42, 1968]
                                                                      lst[4:] \rightarrow [42, 1968]
                                       missing slice indication \rightarrow from start / up to end
```

```
Conditional Statement Statements Blocks
                               statements block executed only if a condition is true
                                           if logical expression:
                                                → statements block
                               can go with several else if, else if... and only one final else, statements block 2...
                               example:
                              if x==42:
                                    # block if logical expression x==42 is true
                                    print("real truth")
                              elif x>0:
                                    # block else if logical expression x>0 is true
```

```
floating point numbers... approximated value! angles in radians Operators: + - * / // %  from math import sin, pi...
                                   \sin(pi/4) \to 0.707...
               integer ÷ remain
                                   \cos(2*pi/3) \rightarrow -0.4999...
(1+5.3)*2\rightarrow12.6
                                   acos (0.5) →1.0471...
abs (-3.2) \rightarrow 3.2
                                  sqrt(81) \rightarrow 9.0
                                   log(e2) \rightarrow 2.0 etc. (cf doc) round (3.57, 1) \rightarrow 3.6
```

```
print("be positive")
elif bFinished:
    # block else if boolean variable bFinished is true
    print("how, finished")
else:
    # block else for other cases
    print("when it's not")
```

```
statements block executed as long Conditional loop statement statements block executed for each Iterative loop statement item of a sequence of values while logical expression:
                                                                                   for variable in sequence:
                     statements block
                                                                                          statements block
          initialisations before the loop
                                                                     Go over sequence's values condition with at least one variable value (here i) s = "Some text"
                                                                                            initialisations before the loop
while i <= 100:
                                                                     cpt = 0
                                                                        loop variable, value managed by instruction for statement # statement executed as long as i \le 100
                                                                     for cin s:
      s = s + i2
                                                                                                                Count number of
                                                                           if c == "e":
      i = i + 1 } d make condition variable change
                                                                                                                e in the string cpt = cpt + 1
print ("sum:", s) } computed result after the loop print("found", cpt, "'e'") loop on dict/set = loop on sequence of keys degree care to inifinite loops!
                                                                     use slices to go over a subset of the sequence Display / Input
                                                                     Go over sequence's index
                                                                     □ modify item at index □ access items around index (before/after) items to display: littéral values, variables, expressions lst = [11, 18, 9, 12, 23, 4, 17]
                                                                     lost = []
   print options:
   □ sep=" " (items separator, default space)
                                                                     for idx in range(len(lst)):
                                                                           val = lst[idx]
   □ end="\n" (end of print, default new line)
                                                                                                                Limit values greater □ file=f (print to file, default standard output) if val > 15:
                                                                                                                than 15, memorisation
                                                                                lost.append(val)
                                                                                                                of lost values.
 s = input("Instructions:")
                                                                                lst[idx] = 15
   input always return a string, convert it to required type print("modif:",lst,"-lost:",lost) (cf boxed Conversions on recto).
len (seq) → items count Operations on sequences Generator of int sequences frequently used in not included
min(seq) max(seq) sum(seq)
                                                                        for iterative loops range ([start,]stop [,step]) sorted (seq) →sorted copy reversed (seq) →reversed copy enumerate (seq) → sequence (index, value) for for loops range (5)
                lst.append(item) lst.extend(seq)
                                                                        range (3,8) 5 lst.index(val) lst.count(val) lst.pop(idx) lst.sort() lst.remove(val) lst.insert(idx,val)
                                                                        range (2, 12, 3)- 2 5
                                                                             range returns a « generator », convert it to list to see storage of data on disk, and read back Files
                                                                             the values, example:
f = open("fic.txt", "w", encoding="utf8") print(list(range(4))) encoding of file variable
             name of file
                              opening mode
                                                                                                            Function definition
                                                                        function name (identifier)
for operations
            on disk
                              □ 'r' read chars for text
                                                                                               named parametrs (+path...)
                              □ 'w' write
                                                    files:
                                                                        def fctname(p_x,p_y,p_z):
                              □ 'a' append...
                                                    uft8
                                                                                """documentation"""
cf functions in modules os and os.path empty string if end of file # statements block, res computation, etc.
    writing
                                                         reading
                                  = f.read(4)<sub>if char count not</sub> f.write("coucou")
                                                                               return res ← result value of the call.
                                                                                                       if no computed result to read next specified, read
parameters and all of this bloc return: return None
                                     line
                                                      whole file
                                                                        only exist in the bloc and during strings, convert from/to required s = f.readline()
                                                                        the function call (« black box »)
type.
f.close() dont miss to close file after use Function call = fctname(3,i+2,2*i) very common: iterative loop reading lines of a text file one argument per parameter for line in f :
                                                                        retrieve returned result (if necessary)
                # line processing block
                                             formating directives
                                                                                values to format
"{:e}".format(123.728212)
                                                                                                              Strings formating
 →'1.237282e+02'
                                         "model {} {} ".format(x,y,r)
"{:f}".format(123.728212)
                                         " { selection : formating ! conversion } "
                                                                                             Conversion parameter:
 →'123.728212'
"{:g}".format(123.728212)
                                                                                             s \rightarrow display string via str() →'123.728'
                                                                                             \mathbf{r} \rightarrow representation string via repr() Formating parameter:
                                                 □ filling: 1 char (followed by alignment!)
 Selection parameter (apparition order by default):
                                                 □ alignment: < left, > right, ^ center, = on sign
 2 \rightarrow \text{argument index 2 (the 3}^{rd}) \Box sign: + for >0 and <0, - only for <0, espace for >0 y \rightarrow argument named y □ #: alternative representation
               "...".format(x=3,y=2,z=12)
                                                 □ minwidth: number, 0 at start for filling with 0 0.name \rightarrow attribute name of argument index 0 □ .precision: decimal count for a float, max width 0 [name] → value for key name of □ type:
                             argument index 0
                                                    integers: b binary, c char, d decimal (default), o octal, x ou X hexadecimal...
 0[2] \rightarrow value for index 2 of float: e or E exponential, f or F fixed point, g ou G appropriate (default), argument index 0
                                                        % pourcent
```